PROJECTS

Album Cover — 2022 ~ present

- For the album cover design project with Lydia Ganda, I engaged in effective client communication, establishing an open dialogue to understand their artistic vision and emotional aspirations for the album cover. This endeavor showcased my proficiency in both traditional drawing and digital design, employing various mediums and devices, including graphic design software and tablets, to seamlessly integrate artistic expression with technological precision.
- I meticulously corresponded the visual elements with the musical themes, analyzing the nuances of the album to evoke the intended emotions. The iterative design process, marked by regular client meetings and feedback incorporation, demonstrated my adaptability and commitment to delivering a visually striking album cover that authentically represented the artists' goals and sonic identity.

Photography— 2021

- In my photography project, I demonstrated a multifaceted skill set, combining technical expertise, teamwork, and meticulous planning to capture compelling moments. Collaborating closely with models, I ensured a seamless and cooperative environment, fostering a connection that translated into authentic and captivating visuals. Organization was paramount, as I took charge of scheduling, coordinating shoots, and managing the usage of the camera equipment. Proficient in manipulating camera settings, including aperture, ISO, shutter speed, and more, I adeptly tailored these variables to suit diverse environments, resulting in images that encapsulated the essence of the moment. This project not only showcased my technical prowess but also highlighted my ability to create a collaborative atmosphere and adapt to varying photographic challenges.
- Post-production, I utilized Adobe Photoshop to enhance the quality of the photos, ensuring a polished and refined final product. This project not only showcased my technical prowess but also highlighted my ability to create a collaborative atmosphere and adapt to varying photographic challenges.
